

OFFICE OF THE PHARMACEUTICAL RESEARCH AND MANUFACTURES COMMITTEE

Investigation to the Development of Pharmaceutical Products

The Committee on the Pharmaceutical Research and Manufacturers of America (PhRMA) has received a request from the Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) regarding the development of pharmaceutical products. The request is based on the findings of a study conducted by the National Center for Human Genome Research (NCHGR) in 1990, which identified a significant gap in the knowledge of the genetic basis of many common diseases. The study also found that the development of new drugs to treat these diseases is often delayed or hindered by a lack of information about the underlying genetic causes.

The Committee is currently reviewing the request and will be holding public hearings on the matter. The hearings will be held in Washington, D.C., and in several other major cities. The Committee will also be conducting a series of studies to determine the extent of the problem and the best ways to address it. The Committee is committed to ensuring that the public has access to the latest information on the development of pharmaceutical products and to promoting the development of new drugs to treat common diseases.
